Description

Add a touch of authentic charm to your home with this lovely antique console table made of fruitwood, dating from the 19th century. Its whitewashed patina, hand-applied for a distressed finish, enhances its countryside character, reminiscent of traditional French farmhouses. The long rectangular top shows a gently worn look, allowing the natural grain of the wood to subtly peek through. The elegantly turned legs, connected by a stretcher, add to the rustic beauty and timeless appeal of this piece. The authenticity and rustic charm of this console never fail to captivate. It is offered in its original condition, untouched by recent restoration, to preserve the integrity of its character and the beauty of its aged patina. A video is available on our Instagram
