Description

Rare and exceptional Spanish "Grand Throne" from the 1950s, a souvenir of the know-how of Coudoue in Spain, both through the ornamental richness of the sculpture of the beautiful cherry wood and the leather embossed with interlacing towers and lions, very prominent, in thick leather and in a Havana color tone with a black frame. The work of this remarkable "Royal" seat, both through the rich sculpture, notably the wide volute armrest returns, the base with a moving spacer, claw feet, and the top of the generous backrest with a beautiful slender movement, does not fail to enhance this beautiful ceremonial seat, a curiosity of ancestral know-how from this region of Spain (a curiosity) not devoid of a certain decorative interest and in an assumed comfort. This beautiful throne is enough in itself to set the tone in an entrance hall or in a living room, also recommended as a generous office armchair....A piece which was executed in the nostalgia of Spain for its rich "Haute Epoque" past, healthy piece in very good condition and with a beautiful patina. The richness of the work encouraged me to buy this unusual piece which can be combined in a classic or ultra modern decor where its strong presence will mark the imagination of the visitor
