Description

Beautiful and wide molding for the doors of this 18th century piece of furniture with two doors in the spirit of hunting sideboards. Well-structured lines, the uprights are rounded and fluted. The central frame, also carved with flutes, is fixed on the left door, which allows a good view of the contents of the furniture once the doors are open. The wood used is cherry for the visible parts and oak for the interior and the bottoms. Good condition, partially restored plinth, some circular marks on the top complete a beautiful patina in shades of brown / red. 116 x 83 x 57 cm 18th century period. Personalized delivery possible, contact us.
