Description

Rare Italian console chest of drawers from the 18th century, originating from the Ferrara area. Internal structure in fir wood, veneered with beautifully grained walnut burl. The hand-carved legs display the distinctive "ham leg" shape, typical of Ferrara craftsmanship, with an elegant and slender profile. The thick walnut veneer and presence of hand-forged nails highlight the high artisanal quality of the piece. It retains its original patina and is in excellent condition. Dimensions: 123 cm wide, 62 cm deep, 84 cm high. A unique, rare, and decorative piece, suitable for both historical interiors and modern settings. Worldwide shipping available upon request. Feel free to contact us for further information or detailed images.
