Description

Provençal walnut panetière opening with a door on the front, and resting on 4 spindle legs. The upper part is topped with a cornice called "gendarme's hat". The openwork front and sides are decorated with a succession of spindle-turned bars. The lower part and the shelf are also openwork with slats. To finish, the bottom is made of 3 fir panels. The back of the panetière has two hooks for hanging it. The door works with a lock that closes with a key in working order, we note that the key is a little bent, and that the door has a slight offset, not preventing me from closing. Good general condition, we note that the patina has "faded" on the right part and that the cornice has a little "play" on the left part. French work from the end of the 19th century.
