Description

Iranian wool kurk rug*, cotton warp and weft, circa 1950. Very good condition. This richly worked Kashan rug features a traditional pattern. A central medallion and four darker spandrels stand out against a pronounced vanilla background. A floral motif is prominently featured on the rug's border and field. Note: the rug is signed twice. *Kurk wool: fine lamb's wool collected by combing. A city in central Iran, the rug-making process began during the Safavid dynasty (1501-1732) and particularly during the reign of Shah Abbas (1588-1629). Schools were established and Ustads (master weavers) created rug designs. The designs were inspired by Persian tradition, reproducing hunting scenes, gardens, roses, trees, mosaic patterns or bas-reliefs (Persepolis) ... These creations were found in the
