Description

Gouache is the name of the painting technique, a painting painted with gouache watercolor, a French word derived from the Italian "guazzo" or guàdo. The gouache palette is made up of a little water thickened with eight colors: ivory black, cobalt blue, raw umber, burnt sienna, cadmium red, emerald green, Naples yellow or yellow ochre, zinc white. Diluted colors, vegetable glues, pigments; a mysterious concoction that every author of this genre keeps secret. Seen from a certain distance, the painting resembles an oil painting. Ours depicts a view of Naples seen from Via Marina, with the fishing village in the foreground and the Posillipo hill in the background. Accompanied by a contemporary Empire frame in gilded and carved wood. General Condition: Good condition. Origin: Naples 19th
