Description

Pair of terracotta vases, made with a stick. The vases have a square base, a globular body decorated with raw engravings. The handles, of great originality and characteristic, are decorated with leaves at the base and end at the top with winged griffins with a protruding breast. Between the two griffins there is a pine cone cap, purely decorative, since the inside of the vase has been closed. The patina of the vases is for outdoors, but they can also be placed indoors, enriching any space with a touch of history and antiquity. Tuscan manufacture from the neoclassical period, around the end of the 18th century.
