Description

Art Deco period desk dating from the 1930s, made of Rio rosewood veneer. This piece of furniture embodies the sober and refined lines characteristic of the Art Deco movement. The rectangular top with rounded corners offers a generous surface for documents or decorative objects. Two symmetrical side cabinets rest on a curved plinth, fitted with doors with round chrome handles giving access to fully restored solid wood interior drawers. Renovated by our specialized workshops, this desk highlights the natural and deep nuances of Rio rosewood, a precious wood that is highly sought after today.
