

Solid Walnut Perfume Box, 18th Century

Description

- Solid walnut box containing a perfume kit, French works from the 18th century. - This solid walnut box, square in shape, equipped with a key lock and a handle on the top reveals a rich interior covered with an elegant celadon blue silk fabric decorated with a silver braid. The lid covers a mirror framed with an embroidery, with silver metallic threads, of frieze motifs. A cushion, the original one, also in silk, protects the mirror. - The box contains four cylindrical bottles, of different capacities, in faceted cut glass and mounted in silver. Their stopper, with a grip, is held to the neck by a small original chain also in silver. They are accompanied by a funnel and a cup also in silver (discharge mark for medium-sized pieces, a caduceus, used in Paris February 1722- November 1726). - This box is
