Description

This glass-fronted music cabinet, made of burr walnut and decorated with scrollwork marquetry, embodies the elegance of the Charles X style. Its top features a tubular structure in ornate brass surmounting a burr walnut veneer top with marquetry of blackened and light wood forming scrolls and scrolls. The front corners are rounded and light wood fillets frame a refined geometric figure in the center. This piece of furniture opens with a door whose glass is rounded at the corners and reveals an interior fitted with 3 fixed shelves, a drawer with an inlaid front and 3 compartments for music scores. The lock is functional. This small piece of furniture is flanked by blackened, turned and carved wooden columns, offering a subtle play of patterns and proportions. This furniture, restored in our workshop, is a
