with their matching jug. Produced by BACCARAT in the second half of the 20th century, the Armagnac model stands in continuity with the tradition of short-stemmed, richly cut services typical of the 19th century. The design of the stem evokes the moulded shapes of the Second Empire, while adopting a refined, modern line characteristic of BACCARAT's post-war creations. The diamond-cut pattern, executed with remarkable precision, perpetuates a decorative vocabulary that emerged in the 1840s within the Baccarat workshops.
