Description

Rare and small chest of drawers in blond oak paneling, from the 18th century Regency period. A small chest of drawers opening with three drawers on the front. The drawers are large with great storage space. They are designed with a hinge and mounted with dovetails. The uprights are curved with a beautiful re-entrant movement that is found on the top and which lightens the piece of furniture. The top therefore follows this particular profile and has a Bec de Corbin as molding. The sides are mounted with flat bands with a protruding panel. It rests on a plinth following the general movement which is original. The backs are also original. Entirely pegged, it has a beautiful patina of waxed light blond oak close to a waxed walnut. The bronzed ones were probably changed in the 19th century.
