Description

Exceptional Art Deco double buckle - belt buckle. Description: Here is a rare piece that is deeply evocative of the graphic elegance of the 1930s: an Art Deco double buckle, in marbled galalith in shimmering shades of absinthe green, powder pink and lemon yellow, framed in dark lacquers and highlighted by a remarkably fine silver-plated metal thread. Designed to accommodate a leather cord - probably for a feminine belt or a choker - this piece evokes all the refinement of a high-society fashion accessory of the interwar period, when the utilitarian object became an aesthetic manifesto. The object bears on the reverse the words "Made in France", originally engraved - a guarantee of know-how, but also of independent creation, at a time when many artisans worked for fashion
