

Ceremonial Roach - Plains Indians

3 200 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Other

Length : 32

Width : 40

Height : 60

Description

This late 19th-century antique Native American Roach headdress, made by Plains tribesmen, is a remarkable example of traditional tribal art. Made of dyed deer hair, porcupine guard hair, and adorned with a quill, it is mounted on a U-shaped braided cloth backing and secured with leather cords. Worn during ceremonies and important events. 60 x 40 x 32 cm.

Dealer

Area Antic

This strange idea of beauty

Tel : +33 145233152

32 rue de Paradis

Paris 75010