

Castelli Maiolica Dish With Young Man In Black Hat, Dog And Classical Ruins, Mid-18th Century

700 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Earthenware

Diameter : 17,5

Description

Castelli maiolica dish with young man in black hat, dog and classical ruins, mid-18th century
Polychrome tin-glazed maiolica (grand feu)
Italy, Castelli d'Abruzzo, mid-18th century
Diameter: approx. 17.5 cm
Hand-painted maiolica dish from Castelli, decorated with a vivid pastoral scene: a young man wearing a wide black hat, seated on a grassy bank, reaches out to a dog leaping up towards him. The gestures and composition evoke a simple, narrative moment, in the spirit of popular decorative art.
To the left stands a group of classical architectural ruins with Corinthian columns, while the background opens onto a lake landscape, with a small boat, distant figures, and a classical building framed by a range of bluish

Dealer

Antichità di Alina

Peintures anciennes - Art nouveau - Art déco, micromosaïques, porcelaine

Mobile : +39 3383199131

Via Maggio 63 / rosso

Firenze 50100

hills. The surrounding vegetation includes trees with twisting trunks and foliage painted in lively, rhythmic strokes, reflecting the Arcadian sensibility typical of Castelli maiolica in the 18th century.

The colour palette -- cobalt blue, copper green, antimony yellow, ochre and manganese brown -- is applied in grand feu technique, with swift, expressive brushwork.

Back glazed in white, undecorated.