Description

Elegant five-drawer storage unit in contemporary Louis XV style was made around 1980. It comes from a residence in the Pays de la Loire region, a region known for its refined furniture heritage.

This elegant five-drawer storage chest, crafted around 1980, is inspired by the Louis XV style. It comes from a private residence in the Loire Valley, a French region renowned for its rich furniture-making tradition. The piece is made of solid oak, carefully sandblasted to reveal the natural beauty of the wood while preserving its original patina. This gentle restoration technique respects the grain and texture of the material, offering an authentic and natural finish without damaging the surface. The chest stands on four cabriole legs and features a gently curved front, true to the Louis XV aesthetic. Each drawer is
