Description

Contemporary earrings in 750/°° white gold (18 KT, hallmarked), each adorned with a line of brilliant-cut diamonds. These earrings are the equivalent of line bracelets, or "tennis", by their sobriety and their brilliance. Each diamond brings its own brilliance, which combined with those of all the others simultaneously, gives these earrings an incomparable brilliance. This effect is accentuated by a flexible (and invisible) meshing of the diamonds between them, which gives mobility to the earrings which only better capture the light. Finally, to perfect the effect, the white gold around each diamond is worked in facets. The gradient of the diamonds gives these earrings a harmonious shape evoking a drop. These earrings are designed for pierced ears and are equipped with a rod combined with a push clasp.
