Description

Sculpture signed Grisard, 19th century. Charming sculpture depicting an elegant lady with a casket, adjusting her bodice in front of a pedestal table decorated with a casket. The head and arms are made of pure white biscuit porcelain, while the dress is finely sculpted in spelter with a golden patina. The whole rests on a round griotte marble base. The scene, of great refinement, illustrates the romantic and theatrical taste of the end of the 19th century. Signed Grisard on the drapery of the garment. Dimensions: Height 34 cm - Diameter of the base 18 cm. Very good general condition, subtle combination of materials and textures.
