Description

This large Chinese porcelain vase is decorated in blue on a white background with scrolls of leaves and stylized birds of paradise. Baluster-shaped and pot-bellied, it has a small straight neck and rests on a slightly flared base. A small crack and a small chip on the neck should be noted, as well as a small repair on the belly and some small firing defects. It measures 35 cm high and 65 cm with the lampshade. 19th century period. Sold separately, this vase, although slightly different from the following, can form a pair with the latter. The electrification of these lamps is recent and we present them with a basic lampshade in order to give the customer the choice of colors and shape, the latter do not always justify the shipping costs.
