Description

Dutch round "cricket" tilting table - 19th century
Charming Dutch tilting table known as "cricket", dating from the 19th century. This elegant round table rests on three legs and is distinguished by its tilting top, typical of period folding furniture designed for both practicality and elegance. Made of solid wood, it has a beautiful warm and even color, with perfectly controlled wear over time, highlighting its authenticity. The table is in very good condition, stable, functional and without structural defects. It fits equally well in a classic interior as in a more eclectic decoration.
