Description

Castilian chest. Walnut wood, wrought iron, and polychromy. Spain, 17th century. Rectangular chest with a flat lid, slightly raised on spheres, decorated on the outside with smooth moldings on the top and bottom, and ironwork (handles on the sides and lock shield) cut to form vegetal and geometric elements. It is worth noting the presence of a "space" inside, on one side, with a lock closure and an iron decoration on the outside that preserves the polychromy (like some other ironwork in the piece), and presents a design of volutes and vegetal elements with a certain reminiscence of the Renaissance and a marked classicist influence. - Dimensions: 166x64x81 cm
