Description

Writing desk. Oak wood, metal, etc. 19th century. Carved oak desk with several drawers and spaces in the upper and lower parts. The decoration of the drawers, doors, central space of the top and the top (in relief and engraving, without polychromy) presents numerous elements (foliage, vases, plant details, architectural forms, monsters, etc.) with a clear classicist influence and a certain memory of the Renaissance, while other details respond more to the taste of the 19th century. It was common at that time to be inspired by the styles of the past for the creation of furniture and decorative arts pieces. -
