Description

Marcel BLAIRAT (1855-1891) Tunisia, "Animated Oriental Landscape". Watercolor signed lower right Size: 24 x 18 cm Marcel Blairat was a French painter, watercolorist, and engraver, born in 1855 and died in 1891. He is best known for his works inspired by landscapes, particularly those of Upper Egypt and the Camargue. Blairat developed a style that focused on oriental scenes and natural landscapes. His watercolors, such as "The Camp," often depict military camps or rural landscapes, capturing the light and atmosphere of the places he visited, particularly Tunisia and Egypt. His work is characterized by a delicate use of color and attention to detail, allowing him to convey a lively and immersive atmosphere.
