Description

Round pillbox in 900 silver with floral decoration - Ottoman Empire - 19th century
Small pillbox in 900 silver, circular in shape, from the Ottoman Empire, and dating from the 19th century.

Description This pocket-sized object is decorated on the lid with three floral motifs chiseled and inlaid with black enamel, arranged on a hammered background with a vegetal or bark texture, characteristic of Ottoman finishes. The perimeter of the body is also decorated with an irregular engraved pattern imitating braiding or organic work, offering a beautiful visual and tactile texture. The hinged lid opens perfectly and reveals a patinated interior with traces of use. The bottom of the box is sober, slightly domed, and bears a discreet "900" hallmark, attesting to the quality of the silver used. Characteristics: Period:
