Description

Albert Guillaume - Humorous scene of hunting with hounds and traveling by stagecoach, 1900 period. Amusing illustration by Albert Guillaume (1873-1942), depicting, for the hollyhock, a scene of hunting with hounds in a satirical style. The rider in the lead blows his horn, followed by a disorganized carriage, where the dogs, the coachman and the carriage seem plunged into joyful chaos. For the second, a comical scene of a stagecoach moving at high speed, four horses rush forward while the coachman tries to keep control. The passengers, perched on the roof, seem to be tossed about in a carefully orchestrated comic imbalance. Works, emblematic of the visual humor of the Belle Époque. One of the greatest French illustrators of the turn of the 20th century. In very good general
