Description

Ferrarese drop-leaf cabinet, from the first half of the 18th century, veneered in walnut and cherry.

Important drop-leaf cabinet with beautiful proportions and refined design.

The choice of materials is oriented towards walnut, which represents the majority of the cabinet, including the fillets, while in the heart of the planks we find the warm wild cherry, expertly presented in a herringbone pattern.

In the cabinet we find the reference to the drawers, and a large hidden secret sealed by a concatenated device.

Intact cabinet.
