Description

Beautiful and large enameled silver box. The box is round, entirely guilloché with fine wavelets, parallel on the body, radiating on the lid. The box is covered with a translucent white enamel, slightly pearly. The lid is enameled with a magnificent flowering branch, perhaps dahlias? This flower painting is magnificent, rendered with great naturalism and numerous details. The petals are numerous, the color gradient rich and subtle; it is a superb work. The interior of the box is silver-gilt. It is hallmarked: 935 for the title. Swan hallmark, later French control. This is probably a Swiss work from the late 19th or early 20th century. A magnificent box, of very high quality, which is particularly noticeable in the enameling of the rounded corner of the lid and the meticulous detail of the flower
