Description

Important naturalist painting in vogue in the second half of the 19th century following the fashion for exoticism strong at the time and taking up animal themes in the spirit of great painters such as Delacroix or Gericault with his fiery horses. We also find this fashion in sculpture with the famous bronzes of Barye. Our painting is a striking scene of an attack of a buffalo brought down by a tiger. The painter was able to restore the speed and force of this attack at the most fatal moment in full movement. beautiful canvas from the second half of the 19th century. No restoration to report. Original gilded frame with channels and palmettes with wear around the edge. Beautiful original chassis. this tableau est une reprise du tableau "Buffle surpris par un tigre" de Charles Verlat pour le Salon 1853
