Description

This large bronze candelabra with 7 light arms is a true jewel of decorative art from the late 19th century. Its classic Louis XVI style appearance is marked by a square base decorated with friezes and leaves. The fluted and slender shaft elegantly leads to a series of curved arms finely carved with flowers and acanthus leaves. These arms, six in number, each support a candlestick, adding a touch of symmetry and refinement. They surround the raised central candle holder, placed on the shaft. The plant ornamentation reveals the attention to detail and the aesthetic taste of the time. It is a piece that combines both functionality and splendor. * Period: Late 19th century Very good condition. 2 slight marks on the shaft.
