Description

Cash register from the American company National dating from the beginning of the 20th century. This company first marketed this type of item from 1884. It is as worked on the cashier side as on the customer side, and the price is visible to both the customer and the seller in francs and centimes. The cash register is made of chiseled bronze with ornamentation on all its faces. A white marble shelf is affixed above the wooden cash drawer, which has 10 compartments dedicated to the storage of coins and notes. The whole rests on a wooden base. Old cash register rolls. The coin drawer opens when the crank is operated on the right. Very decorative, unusual object. Beautiful condition.
