Description

Pair of Louis XIV style bedside tables Period: Early 20th century Inlaid veneer wood - Breccia d'Aleppo marble - Gilt bronze Elegant pair of curved Louis XIV style bedside tables, made at the beginning of the 20th century. Each piece of furniture has a natural wood structure richly inlaid with geometric veneer frieze, executed with great finesse in the spirit of the 18th century. The drawers, three per piece of furniture, are adorned with original chiseled bronze handles, finely worked and patinated by time. The tops are topped with superb Breccia d'Aleppo marble, with delicate polychromy, perfectly matching the curves of the boxes. The whole rests on elegant arched legs ending in bronze sabots. Beautifully crafted French work, combining decorative refinement and quality of execution. These
