Description

Pierre-Narcisse Guérin (1774-1833) Portrait of the Duke of La Rochefoucauld Oil on canvas, 43 × 53 cm without frame Gilt wood frame, 18th century Portrait attributed to Pierre-Narcisse Guérin, French neoclassical painter, member of the Institute and director of the Villa Medici in Rome. The work represents the Duke of La Rochefoucauld wearing a hat decorated with blue, white and red ostrich feathers, in reference to his rallying to revolutionary ideas. The tricolor plume on the hat echoes his moderate support for the Revolution and his role as mediator between the monarchical institution and reformist ideas. The model is probably François-Alexandre-Frédéric, Duke of La Rochefoucauld-Liancourt (1747-1827), a committed reformer during the Revolution, deputy in 1789 and promoter of
