Description

Art Deco ring in gold, sapphire and diamonds, circa 1920 Antique ring from the Art Deco period, circa 1920, presenting a beautiful balance of volumes and finely worked ornamentation. It is centered by an oval-cut sapphire of approximately 0.50 ct, supported on each side by two old mine cut diamonds, and bordered by a pavé of rose-cut diamonds. The thick and generously decorated setting mixes yellow gold with silver on the upper part, according to the classic use of jewelry from this period. Gold twists delimit the pavé sections, bringing a touch of relief and elegance. A structured, massive, and typically Art Deco model, ideal for collectors or lovers of antique jewelry with a strong presence. Characteristics Period: circa 1920 Metals: 18-carat yellow gold and silver Total weight: 9.3
