Description

Patinated plaster corner column - Italian Renaissance style - Carved winged putto
Made in the 1950s
Here is a true little decorative marvel, a patinated plaster corner column, made in the style of the Italian Renaissance, and decorated with a delightful winged putto in high relief, delicately framed with foliage, palmettes and classical motifs. Its antique appearance and beautiful patina give it an authentic charm, as if it had always belonged to an old 19th century residence. It is perfect for integrating into a modern or classic interior, bringing a touch of artistic and timeless elegance. Ideal for placing a lamp, a sculpture or a beautiful object, this column quickly becomes a strong piece of the decor, both sculptural and warm.
Details: o Patinated plaster with architectural decoration: moldings, stylized
