Renaissance Marble Frame - 16th Century

2 350 EUR

Period : 16th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Marble

Description

Magnificent marble frame dating from the 16th century, from an ancient European church. This type of frame was used for the interior decoration of religious buildings during the Renaissance period. It is distinguished by its classical architectural lines and its elegant, finely carved gilt bronze shield positioned at the top. A later intervention reinforced the structure with discreetly added metal rods at the back to guarantee the stability and preservation of the piece. Condition: Good overall condition, with a beautiful patina. Normal traces of time consistent with the age of the object. Dimensions: Overall: 67 x 48 x 1 cm Internal: 47 x 28 cm An authentic piece, ideal for collectors or to enrich a classic or sacred interior decoration with a historical and artistic touch. Period: Renaissance, 16th century
