Description

A curiosity from the very beginning of the 19th century published under the First Empire, in Paris, at Debray, bookseller, place du Muséum, and at the Marchands de Nouveautés. From the Imprimerie de Gille, Year XI. - 1803; sumptuously bound in a so-called Ancien Régime binding, in speckled brown morocco, smooth spine decorated with gilt irons, covers with gilt fillet frames, magnificent Coat of Arms with the Royal Crown of Double Alliance. This beautiful copy, a literary curiosity, has on the flyleaf its blue binding and at the end of the work on the flyleaf the bookplate of Légal-Thiberge 89 rue Plantagenet in Anger, the announced engraving has not been published for this remarkable copy of a rich binding in perfect condition
