Description

Elegant drop-front desk of Parmesan origin, dating to the mid-18th century, in full Louis XV style. Made of solid carved wood, richly hand-decorated with rocaille motifs on the front, sides and fall-front panel. It features three drawers with slightly curved fronts, and a slanted fall-front revealing an interior fitted with small drawers. The sides are straight but richly carved with floral motifs. Cabriole legs and original brass handles and escutcheons complete the ensemble with elegance and consistency. Preserved in its original patina, the piece has never undergone major restoration. Only minor structural reinforcements have been carried out (some small repairs to the feet and borders). It is a sound, authentic piece, full of charm, with warm wood tones and aged surfaces
