Description

This exquisite antique ring from the late 19th century beautifully showcases the refined craftsmanship of the period. Crafted in 18K yellow gold (750?) and silver (925?), the ring features a striking elongated oval design, typical of the Victorian and Belle Époque eras. At its heart, three captivating blue sapphires (approximately 0.90 carat) are arranged vertically, surrounded by a delicate halo of 22 old-cut diamonds (approximately 0.45 carat). The combination of yellow gold and silver settings enhances the contrast and highlights the brilliance of the stones.

The ring's intricate filigree details and unique design make it an exceptional collector's piece. Ideal for those who appreciate antique jewelry
