Lhote. His first exhibition took place in 1951 at the Galerie Sagot-Le Garrec. That same year, he became a professor of engraving at the École des Beaux-Arts in Marseille, a position he held until 1973. He then returned to Lorraine to teach at the École des Beaux-Arts in Nancy. A versatile artist, he also explored stained glass and mosaics and illustrated several literary works. His work expresses power, elegance, and sensitivity. In 1957, he received the Prix Galilée from the Académie de Stanislas. He has been a member of the Société des peintres-graveurs français since 1964. His works are featured in numerous museums in France and abroad.
