Description

This model created in the 80s that he called "Carlton" was imagined by the famous designer decorator Pierre-Yves Rochon in reference to the famous hotel of the same name. Brand MLE, these sober wall lights have a stepped frame with a refined and very typical Art Deco design, a style to which they pay wonderful homage. Original label present on each one. In chromed metal, their original tube in ABS polymer diffuses a warm white light. These wall lights can be installed vertically or horizontally according to your needs. Equipped at each end with a fluorescent tube, they work perfectly and are ready to be installed! Dimensions: Height / Length: 40 cm x 12 cm depth Weight: 2 kg each wall light or 4 kg for the 2 (without packaging) They date from the time of creation and both the chrome and the ABS diffuser tube are of quality - their weight is proof of this! The diffuser tube is made of ABS, while the glasses of the current manufacture sconces are made of PVC. Good general condition. They have been used. One closing screw changed (see photo). Very slight cleaning scratches and traces of age. Please note that I respond to all requests about my objects.
