Description

Plexiglas console table, Italian manufacture, 1970s Plexiglas console table made in Italy in the 1970s. The piece takes the form of a stylized Corinthian capital, molded in a single piece, with a high level of detail on the acanthus leaves and volutes. The whole has a pronounced patina resulting from prolonged outdoor exposure for nearly twenty years. This surface alteration gives the piece a patinated, slightly weathered appearance, particularly on the edges and protruding parts. It testifies to a natural aging of the material, without altering the structural stability.
