Description

Beautiful pair of decorative glass display cases, featuring a pair of stuffed taxidermy pheasants, made in the Victorian taxidermy tradition, capturing the beauty of nature in a unique and preserved form. Taxidermy pheasants, mounted inside the display cases, showcase the rich colors and textures of these majestic birds. The first display case contains two specimens, a male and a female, arranged in a woodland setting with recreated plant elements. The second display case, with mahogany wood borders and corner columns, houses a magnificent male pheasant. End of the 19th century and beginning of the 20th century.
