Description

Kidney-shaped side table in blackened wood and precious wood marquetry from the Napoleon III period. Furniture composed of two shelves, both finely marquetry of strongly contrasting wood. The upper shelf is surrounded by a gallery in gilded and openwork brass. Small, very refined occasional piece of furniture, finding its place everywhere. This side table is very light and therefore easy to move, it cannot therefore support heavy weight such as a marble or bronze statue. Furniture in good condition, discreet small wear of black paint on the base.
