Sassanid dynasty and later under the Safavid dynasty of Persia (1501-1736). It was a major textile motif in Iran during the Qajar and Pahlavi dynasties in a more elaborate way. At that time, these motifs were used to decorate royal insignia, crowns and court clothing, as well as textiles used by the general population. The fine carvings show the dexterity of Persian engravers even on a fine quality ethnic object of rural origin. These wonderful tinned coppers, under the Safavid and Qajar dynasties, were an eminent alternative to silver and they enjoyed the same status. These objects certainly lived as the centerpieces of Persian homes. A magnificent artifact of Persian art, our highly crafted model can only become a centerpiece of a fine collection. Very good patina overall. ## Similar copper objects are in the Heydar Aliyev Foundation Museum: Cultural heritage of Azerbaijan.## Persian "doltcha" table carafe from the 19th century, tinned copper chiseled with plants, very good condition, another model presented on Proantic.Dimensions: carafe height: 21 cm - width: 19 cm - weight: 479 grs cup height: 10.5 cm - diameter: 9.5 cm - weight: 168 grsFREE SHIPPING FOR FRANCE as for all of our objects!!!FR 0EUR / EUR 25EUR / WORLD 50EUR - MORE PHOTOS ON REQUESTFor all requests for information, do not hesitate to contact me at 06 13 36 09 30 or at winsteinprovence@gmail.comYou will find on our site a large range of Persian, Anatolian and Caucasian rugs and a beautiful collection of other ancient objects.www.winsteinprovence.comCOME VISIT US !!!(texts, photo credits, Winstein, all rights reserved) REF WINSTEIN 1401
