Description

Exceptional solid silver lamp on a mineral base, representing a pheasant perched on the branch of a tree that seems ready to spread its wings at any moment. This work is the work of a Spanish goldsmith from the beginning of the 20th century who, through this trompe-l'oeil, invites nature into the home of its owner. This result is made possible by the finesse of the execution, characterized by the relief of the bark and the attention to detail of the plumage. Base diameter = 20 cm Height (without lampshade) = 44 cm / 63 cm (with)
