Description

Rare and beautiful antique Pendang sword from the Indonesian archipelago. This traditional weapon was carried by nobles or warriors, often used in ceremonies or as a status symbol. Blade: Hand-forged from Damascus steel (pamor) with characteristic visible patterns. The pamor pattern is not only decorative but also a lucky charm according to Indonesian tradition. Handle: Finely carved from buffalo horn, with traditional floral or plant motifs. Dimensions: Approximately 69 cm long. Condition: Very good condition for its age. Beautiful patina. No visible structural damage or restoration. Solid handle, light wear consistent with age. Collector's Item: An original item, ideal for collectors of ethnographic weapons or Asian art. Additional Information: This sword represents both a functional weapon and a
