Description

This beautiful evocation of the Algiers region was painted by Ferdinand Fargeot during his stay at the Villa Abd El Tif, Algiers, in 1923. The Villa Abd El Tif was the oriental equivalent of the Villa Medici, welcoming young French artists. With a few broad and generous strokes of paint, in a beautiful palette, the painter brings out a seaside landscape, dominated by Moorish villas, with colorfully dressed figures in the foreground. Touches of white punctuate the composition, white Algiers is not far away. On the back of the painting are some interesting inscriptions: An old exhibition label stuck on a framing label with the date "1923" and we can see the traces of the inscription "Moorish Villas" A later written mention "Ferdinand Fargeot (1880 - 1957) Moorish Villas near Algiers 1923" Finally a
