Material : Wool

Length : 185

Width : 105

Description

Hand-knotted Persian tribal rug, likely of Baluch origin (Iranian Baluchistan), dating to the 20th century. The field features a repeating geometric pattern composed of octagonal shapes with star-like elements, in deep red and black tones, framed by multiple traditional borders. The color palette is limited yet vibrant, with dominant reds and blacks punctuated by subtle beige details for added contrast. Made entirely of wool on a wool warp and weft, it displays minor irregularities typical of nomadic craftsmanship. Good general condition, with signs of wear consistent with age. Original label on the back ("Made in Iran"). Size: 185 x 105 cm Material: Wool Technique: Hand-knotted Origin: Iran???? For more information or additional photos, feel free to contact us.?
