Description

Oil on canvas signed lower left "Weingard", dimensions 73 × 60 cm. Charming landscape composition in bright tones, depicting a bucolic space enlivened by a childlike figure, typical of the artist's Parisian period. Rare work by the painter of the Montparnasse group, close to Archipenko and Aberdam. Condition: some cracks and slight wear, consistent with its age, but preserved in good overall condition. Provenance: private collection. Biography of the artist Joachim Weingart (born in 1895 in Drohobych, Galicia - died in 1942 in Auschwitz) is a painter of Polish origin who studied in Weimar, Vienna and Berlin, notably with Alexander Archipenko. Settling in Paris in 1925, he fully integrated into the artistic avant-garde of Montparnasse. He exhibited at the Salons des Indépendants, d'Automne and des

Tuileries, and became a member of the "Group of Four" alongside Léon Weissberg, Alfred Aberdam and Zygmunt Menkes. His works, nourished by impressionist and modernist influences, oscillate between landscapes, still lifes, nudes and urban scenes. Arrested during the Occupation, he was interned in Pithiviers in 1942 before being deported to Auschwitz, where he tragically died the same year. Shipping possible worldwide
